COOLIDGE IS NOMINATED AMIDST UNPRECEDENTED DEMONSTRATION ON PART OF G. O. P. CONVENTION

Wisconsin Alone in Opposition to Choice of President for Another Term in the Executive Chair—Delegates Shout and Parade for 15 Minutes After Name Is Placed in Nomination and Stage Tremendous Demonstration When Result of Poll Is Made Known.

By United Press.

CONVENTION HALL, CLEVELAND, June 12.—Calvin Coolidge today was formally selected to lead Republican hosts to victory or defeat at the polls this fall.

At the climax of one of the most extraordinary conventions held by the party in years, the President was given an overwhelming vote of confidence for another term in the White House amidst tumultous scenes of cheering, applause and unrestrained demonstration.

The nomination of the President marked the emergency of a new leadership in the G. O. P., a leadership of New England. The so-called "Senate oligarchy" passes as dictator of the party organization with the rise of this new leadership.

The convention's choice was acclaimed by a wild din as the delegates shrieked, whistled and applied themselves to all sorts of noise-making devices that had been distributed in the hall. Delegates and visitors broke loose from the restraint which has made this one of the quietest Republican conventions to be held.

The first great demonstration of the nominating session came at the conclusion of the nomination address delivered by Dr. Marion L. Burton of Michigan.

The tall, red-headed young Yankee scholar and divine, made tremendous appeal. He concluded by presenting the convention:

"The virile man—the staunch American—the real human being—Calvin Coolidge."

A cheer broke out over the hall as delegates and galleries rose to their feet. Then almost as one man the 1,100 delegates started on a parade about the hall singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," "Marching Through Georgia" and other favorites.

After Dr. Burton sat down it required 15 minutes for the convention to vent its feelings in wild applause, cheers and parades.

Then Chairman Mondell asked if there were any other nominations. A shout of "no" went up.

"I will then recognize a second for the nomination offered by Dr. Burton," the chairman said.

Mrs. Florence Porter of California was recognized and mounted the rostrum amid cheers. An elderly gray-haired woman, dressed in a lavender silk gown, she recited the accomplishments attained by women through the medium of the Republican party. She spoke in a clear strong voice, offering the first second on the part of California.

"We believe," she said, "that somehow the spirit of Lincoln, McKinley and Garfield has entered into the spirit of Calvin Coolidge. We believe in his spirit of justice revealed when he voted for woman suffrage."

Thomas Scott, the Wisconsin delegate who voted for Coolidge, moved to make the nomination unanimous. It was carried with a shout. The other Wisconsin delegates shouted "no."

"With the exception of a vice voce, the nomination of Calvin Coolidge is made unanimous," Chairman Mondell shouted.

The convention recessed until 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

After the convention was called to order at 11:48 the band played "The Star-Spangled Banner" and Bishop Schrembs of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Cleveland was introduced and lead in prayer.

After the prayer and singing of "America," the roll of states was then called for national committeemen—one man and one woman from each.

The new committeemen were then formally declared elected by the convention.

Preliminary to the calling of the roll of the states for nomination of President a five-minute rule was set for seconding speeches. At the call of "Alamaba," the chairman of the Alabama delegation arose and declared "Alabama yields to Massachusetts."

Governor Cox of the Massachusetts delegation then called on Dr. Marion Leroy Burton of Michigan to speak on behalf of President Coolidge in placing his name before the convention.

A tall slender man, Dr. Burton spoke rapidly, declaring that in making his speech he knew exactly what the outcome would be and in nominating this candidate "we are virtually electing the next President of the United States."

Dr. Burton departed from his set speech to engage in humorous sallies at his audience. He was distinctly a hit with the convention. Speaking of Mr. Coolidge's personal traits, Dr. Burton said "he may be an example but he never set one."

Many of Dr. Burton's sallies were at the President's sense of humor and the trait of silence.

"He is the exemplification of prodigality of thought and economy of expression," Dr. Burton said.

Again he said: "His mind has turned to work because his tongue permits it."

Throughout Dr. Burton painted the picture of his subject in warm and familiar colors and won his audience with his sense of humor.

Similarity of Tactics Clue in Big Gem Robbery

By United Press.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Federal authorities and the police are searching for Gerald Chapman, escaped convict, in connection with the hold-up and robbery of a mail truck in downtown New York yesterday in which gems valued at $100,000 were taken.

A search was started after federal authorities noted that the plans were carried out in the same manner as the mail holdup in 1921 in which Chapman and his gang took $2,000,000 securities. Chapman was sentenced to the Atlanta prison but escaped and has been a fugitive. Members of his gang are known to be in the East.

MINING MEN MEET TO HEAR TALKS ON SAFETY MEASURES

About 100 mine superintendents and other operating officials of coal and coke companies attended a meeting of the Fayette-Greene Coal Producers Association at the Summit Hotel Wednesday night to hear discussions of topics relating to greater safety in mining.

"Rock Dusting" was the principal topic, the discussion of which was lead by Captain Edward Steidle, supervisor of the mine extension courses of Carnegie Institute of Technology. A. C. Fieldner of the Pittsburg Experiment Station of the Bureau of Mines also spoke on the same subject.

Detailed descriptions of the development of rock dusting in Europe and America as a means of preventing coal dust explosions were cited by the speakers, together with a discussion of means of application, cost and efficacy. Mine Inspectors Edward E. Girod of Masontown and Richard Maize of Uniontown participated in the discussion.

Edward H. Coxe, general superintendent of the Snowdon Coke Company and F. W. Newnall of the Republic Iron & Steel Company, related their experiences with coal loading machines of various types.

Clyde Elkins of Connellsville, insurance inspector, spoke briefly on the progress of mine safety, taking occasion to remark that the mine of a member of the association has the lowest insurance rating in the state.

M. D. Cooper of the Hillman Coal & Coke Company drew attention to the next meeting of the Coal Mining Institute of America, urging large attendance.

President G. Earl Areford introduced William Z. Price, assistant general superintendent of the Buckeye Coal Company, as presiding officer, in which capacity he served most acceptably to the persons in attendance.

The meeting was arranged by the association's committee on mining methods, machinery and power, the members of which are:

John Danahy of the Penn-Pitt Coal Company; E. B. Winning of the Republic Iron & Stel Company; John A. Malady of the Hillman Coal & Coke Company; Frank Crow of the Puritan Coke Company; John Forsythe of the Buckeye Coal Company, and H. R. Sackett of the Sackett Coal & Coke Company.

President Areford announced that the next meeting of the association will be held at the Summit sometime in July at which it is hoped to have at least 400 mining men in attendance to hear addresses by leaders in the industry.

CALVIN COOLIDGE

The Nominee

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The wire in the White House telegraph room today clicked off a message for Calvin Coolidge, saying, in its cool, impersonal way, words to this effect:

"You have been nominated."

Behind that message lies the romance of the poor boy who came at last to the greatest eminence his Nation knows. With those words opened a vista through which he could see ahead the goal of a full term of that high place—a term in his own right. Between him and that lie the obstacles of the campaign, but in great moments men do not see obstacles, but only goals.

The Calvin Coolidge who today got that message is an older, somewhat wearier man than he who was called by the sudden turn of destiny to occupy the White House in August, 1923. He has had, between then and now, the burden of the presidency upon his shoulders and his heart, and the thrill that today's message brought must have been tempered somewhat by knowledge. The President knows that he faces a fight for election and that, if he is elected, his pathway will be a hard one.

Four years ago, in Chicago, "Jimmy" Reynolds had Calvin Coolidge's presidential boom in his pocket. Reynolds didn't tell it abroad at first, but that boom was really a vice-presidential boom, and with consummate skill he worked things so that Coolidge was the vice-presidential nominee.

In March, 1921, Mr. Coolidge took his oath as president of the Senate and assumed the not too arduous but rather deadening duties of that office. He succeeded the effervescent Tom Marshall, whose sense of humor was so active that not even Senate routine could dull it.

But Mr. Coolidge seemed not to mind the dragging hours of Senate debate, or the more or less purposeless parliamentary bickerings. He applied himself from the beginning to mastering the intricacies of Senate rules, and so well succeeded that he was voted a fair and intelligent presiding officer. Too, he afforded occasional glimpses to some of the Senators of a Coolidge they did not suspect—one with a sense of humor and a chatty humanness. He came to be well liked, and was always respected, though he was not, as Marshall had been a "chummy" vice-president.

Called to Presidency.

When, in the early morning of August 3, 1923, Mr. Coolidge was notified of the death in San Francisco of President Harding, he took the oath of office from his father amid a setting as romantic and as fitted to the American tradition of simplicity and democracy as any recorded in the nation's history. He stood up in the vague light of kerosene lamp, in the parlor of a Vermont farm house, far from any suggestion of majesty or pomp, close to the eternal hills, and there accepted the responsibility which thus had come upon him out of the night.

It was on a farm in the same state that he was born, amid the patriotic manifestations of July 4, 1872. He came of Puritan stock, and his youth was no stranger to hard work and to the homely training of the region and period. He got out of the primary school and was sent to the Black River and St. Johnsbury academies, as preparation for Amherst.

His classmates at Amherst couldn't quite make Coolidge out. He had by this time developed Yankee reticence to a fine art, so that, though he was not regarded as unfriendly or a "grouch," he was not among the popular boys in the college. But he was liked. The fellows couldn't seem to get close to him, that was all. He has always trod a lonely path, judged by other people's standards, but there are evidences that he never felt lonely.

After his graduation, Coolidge was admitted to the bar, and with characteristic practicality, while practicing his profession, he devoted himself at once to the field in which his inborn faith told him his destiny lay—politics. He started at the bottom of the ladder, and from that time on he moved up, step by step, to the amazement of politicians and laymen alike, who never had understood the secret of his success. Perhaps they do not properly estimate the power of faith.

Elected Governor.

Minor offices in Northampton, Mass., were followed by election to the Massachusetts House. Then he was twice mayor of Northampton, and after that presiding officer of the state senate. In 1915 he became lieutenant governor of the state, and in 1918 governor.

The Boston police strike brought him into national prominence. There has always been some dispute about Coolidge's part in putting it down, but whatever the facts about that, it made Coolidge's name known and opened the way for his nomination as Vice-President.

Outwardly there is little change in Coolidge since he became President. He seems not to have taken on or lost a pound of weight. His habits have undergone no change. He has adopted no new practices, political or personal, despite his changed circumstances. Just as he clung to his faith in his early years, so today he clings to the ways of his youth.

Washington subjected him to a cold and somewhat cynical examination, but he seemed unperturbed by it. His callers soon found that, when he thought the occasion called for it, he could display a sense of humor. He proved to be astonishingly well informed.

Mrs. Coolidge, who, as Grace Goodhue, a school teacher, was once warned by a White House guard not to touch the gold piano in one of the White House State apartments, fitted into Washington's official social life instantly. The two Coolidge boys, John and Calvin, Jr.—the President's only known hobbies—continued their attendance at Mercersburg Academy.

New Cure for Cancer Found Physicians Told

CHICAGO, June 12.—"There is a definite cure for cancer," Dr. Everett C. Field, director of the Radium Institute of New York, declared Wednesday before the American Association for the Study and Cure of Cancer. The Cancer Association met in conjunction with the American Medical Association, holding its 75th annual convention here this week.

The compound described by Dr. Field was discovered by Dr. William F. Koch of Detroit. Radium forms no part of the treatment, the speaker said, but rather it consists of the use of chemicals which "appear to kill the cancer organisms by making unsuitable the soil upon which the bacteria must thrive or possibly by a direct action upon the germ itself."

Having spent 12 years in cancer research with radium, Dr. Field declared he had found it along with X-ray treatment and surgery "pitiably inadequate."

Vice-Presidential Tide Turns to Judge Kenyon After Mixup Over Curtis

With Choice Apparently Agreed Upon Word Comes Senator Is Not the Man.

VOTE EXPECTED TONIGHT

By United Press.

CLEVELAND, June 12.—An amazing development within the ranks of the Coolidge managers developed while the convention was in session today, that made another complete up-set in the vice-presidential situation apparently certain, and forecast the nomination of Judge Kenyon of Iowa instead of Senator Curtis of Kansas or any of the other candidates that have been mentioned.

Senator Reed Smoot of Utah declared on the floor of the convention that the nomination of Kenyon could be regarded as a virtual certainty.

Pennsylvania and New York, during the morning, endorsed Curtis. They gave such endorsement on an understanding that one of the closest advisors of the President had passed out the word that Curtis would be acceptable to the White House.

After arriving at the convention hall, however, they began to get intimations that something was wrong. They were told if the fight for Curtis was pressd William M. Butler, the President's campaign manager, himself, would take the platform to oppose him. New York and Pennsylvania immediately decided they should have another caucus.

CONVENTION HALL, CLEVELAND, June 12.—Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, Republican whip of the Senate, was agreed upon early today as the Administration choice for running mate of President Coolidge and is expected to be nominated as Vice-President on an early ballot.

The Illinois delegation will give him 41 votes on the first ballot, according to the Coolidge leaders. He is acceptable to the wheat states bloc, who demand a nominee for the Middle West, and little opposition is expected from any source.

This development came after emphatic statements had been given by Senator William E. Borah that he would not accept the nomination. If Borah persists in declining, as he has indicated, it was learned that the full support of Republican leaders will be given to the Curtis nomination. Borah, in that event, will not even be placed in nomination. It is understood after Curtis, Republican leaders favor General Harbord.

THREE LEADERS DECLINE PROFFER OF VICE-PRESIDENCY

CLEVELAND, June 12.—Three of the most prominent Republicans in the country now have had the vice-presidential nomination served up to them on a platter and have sent the platter back.

Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, was the first to have the dish set before him. He refused it.

Herbert Hoover was tried next. He declined also.

Then it fairly was hurled at the head of Senator Borah, with positive statements from Administration sources that Borah would accept it. Borah dodged.

TWO BOYS KILLED, THIRD INJURED BY SPEEDING SPECIAL

Five Step From Behind Freight at Davidson Coke Plant But Two Escape.

HAD BEEN SWIMMING

Stepping from behind a freight train directly into the path of a special train on the tracks of the Southwest branch of the Pennsylvania railroad, just north of the Davidson coke plant yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock, two of a group of five boys were instantly killed, one was probably fatally wounded and two escaped with minor injuries.

The dead are:

John Barkley, 16 years old, fractured skull.

Onall Bramlet, 11 years old, body badly mangled, legs amputated.

The injured boy is Robert Lee Gray, 10 years old. He is in the Connellsville State Hospital, suffering from a fractured skull, brush burns and bruises about the body. His condition this morning was pronounced as serious. He is conscious, however.

The quintet of youngsters had been swimming in the old Plummer hole. They were returning to their homes when the fatal accident occurred. As the freight train pulled out they stepped from behind it directly in the path of the special. On the latter was Superintendent J. A. Appleton of the Central Division, making an inspection tour of this branch.

The Barkley and Bramlet boys were crushed beneath the wheels. The third youth, Robert Gray, was hurled several feet through the air by the impact. The other boys, James Barkley, a brother of the dead boy, and Floyd Vaughn, escaped.

The dead bodies and the injured lad were brought to the Pennsylvania station here. The bodies were taken to the J. E. Sims funeral home and Gray was removed to the hospital, where an operation was performed at once.

One of the first to reach the boys was Supervisor McGarvey of Uniontown, who was aboard the special. He rendered first aid to Gray.

John Barkley was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Barkley, Sr. He was born October 10, 1907, in Alabama. The family resides at 307 Connell avenue. The father is employed at the Bowers Mill, South Side, Pittsburg.

Onall Bramlet was the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Bramlet of Sligo Row. His father is employed by the Pittsburg Forge & Iron Company in Pittsburg. The boy was also born in Alabama.

No funeral arrangements have been made by either family.

Robert Lee Gray's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Gray. The father is also employed in Pittsburg.

Coroner S. A. Baltz of Uniontown was notified and viewed the bodies following which they were prepared for burial and removed to the homes of the parents.

Identification was lacking for about an hour following the accident. A number of persons viewed the bodies before their identity was finally established. The two uninjured boys, badly frightened, had run to their homes following the accident.

News of the tragedy spread rapidly through the community. The fact that the names of the youths were confused at first gave rise to many false rumors and this caused frequent requests to be allowed to view the remains that they might be identified.

Commander Clark Will Be 80 Friday

Commander W. P. Clark of William F. Kurtz Post, Grand Army of the Republic, will celebrate the 80th anniversary of his birth Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home in Lincoln avenue. Members of the Post will be guests. Previous to the party the monthly business meeting of the organization will be held.

PROSECUTORS MUST APPEAR OR PAY COSTS

In court in Uniontown this morning Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen made it plain that when prosecutors who have cases in court do not appear the defendants are to be found not guilty and the disposition of the costs be left to the jury.

This came following the failure of Constable Walter Brown of Uniontown to appear against Gidi Merossi, whom he had prosecuted for operating a punchboard at Coolspring. The jury was drawn, instructed to find the defendant not guilty and then a decision was returned, placing the costs on the constable.

At the district attorney's office attachments were issued for Sergeant Andy Hudock and Private Rusko of the State Police, requiring them to appear in court. They were subpoenaed in a case that was called this morning.

In the murder trial of Andrew Coontz for the death of Constable Lon Sutton at Smithfield, little progress was made this morning.

Rector Who Married Divorcees Resigns On Eve of Trial

By United Press.

HARRISBURG, June 12.—Allen P. Wilson, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church at Marietta, resigned from the ministry today rather than face trial for violation of the canon on divorce. He was alleged to have performed a marriage ceremony where the principals were divorced on grounds not recognized by the church. The trial set for tomorrow has been called off, Bishop Darlington announced, owing to the resignation of Wilson.

Tomorrow "Black Friday."

Tomorrow will be "Black Friday." The day falls on the 13th of the of the month, thereby, in the minds of the superstitious, doubling the opportunities for misfortune to get in its work. It is the only time during 1924 that Friday and the 13th come together.

To Undergo Operation.

Martin Koshar of Star Junction was admitted to the Connellsville State Hospital this morning to undergo an operation tomorrow.

Brennen-Bennett.

A large and brilliant wedding was solemnized this morning at 10:30 o'clock at St. John the Baptist Roman Catholic Church at Scottdale when Miss Ann Therese Brennen, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John P. Brennen of Scottdale, was united in marriage to James A. Bennett of Greensburg. Rev. M. A. Lambing, the rector, officiated. A large assemblage of guests from Scottdale and out of town points were in attendance. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Alice Keller of Clairton. Miss Claire Kennedy of Scottdale, sang "Ave Maria." The bride wore a handsome gown of white satin and tulle, fashioned entraine, bordered with pearls and caught with clusters of orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white sweetheart roses and valley lilies. Miss Virginia Brennen, her sister's maid of honor, appeared in a beautiful white Chantilly lace gown over pink crepe de chine, and a shadow hat of pink. She carried a Dresden bouquet of snapdragon and valley lilies. The bridesmaids, Mrs. E. A. Byrne and Miss Helen Brennen, sisters of the bride, Mrs. John J. Kennedy of Scottdale, Miss Frances Riggs, a school friend of the bride at Mount de Chantal Academy at Wheeling, W. Va., and Miss Florence Finnerty of Scottdale, were gowned in Chantilly lace over orchid chiffon and wore orchid hats, designed with pink roses and streamers of orchid tulle, and silver slippers. They carried Dresden bouquets to harmonize with their gowns. The flower girl, Dorothy Claire Rheineman, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Walter Rheineman of Pittsburg, wore a pink taffeta frock and hat of similar tone, and carried a colonial bouquet. Lincoln O. Robertshaw of Greensburg served as Mr. Bennett's best man. Ushers were Harry Bennett of Pittsburg, William Brennen, a brother of the bride, Edward Howard and John Robertshaw of Greensburg.

The ceremony at the church was supplemented by a handsomely appointed wedding breakfast at the Brennen residence, South Broadway.

The bride was graduated from Mount De Chantal Academy, Wheeling, W. Va., and is prominent socially at Scottdale, being one of the most popular members of the younger set. She is also well known in Connellsville. Previous to her marriage Mrs. Bennett was honor guest at a series of social functions. Mr. Bennett is a business man of Greensburg. Upon their return from a western trip Mr. and Mrs. Bennett will be at home in Greensburg. Out of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. John Bennett, Miss Adeline Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Moore and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Carter, Mrs. Mary Howard and Richard Copeland, all of Greensburg; Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Doran, Miss Mary Brennen, Frank Brennen, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Vilsack, Miss Louise Vilsack, John Vilsack, Joseph Vilsack, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Wise and children, J. O. Connor Campbell, J. B. Kellogg's Bran did more in two weeks than medicine taken in 20 years

Out of regard for your own health, read this letter:

> Gentlemen:
> Your "Krumbled Bran," used by me as a cereal, has done more for me in two weeks than the hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine I have taken in last twenty years for constipation. It is wonderful, and it is so simple.
> Yours truly,
> Arlington H. Carman,
> Patchogue, N. Y.

Mr. Carman's experience has been duplicated in thousands of homes. Why does Kellogg's Bran succeed when drugs and pills fail? The answer is simple. Drugs have an unnatural effect upon the bowels. They irritate the intestines. The more they are used, the more one has to use. Finally, they have no effect at all.

Kellogg's Bran STIMULATES the intestines. It cleans, sweeps and purifies them. It acts exactly as nature acts. And it is never necessary to increase the amount eaten. If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to bring permanent relief to the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. For Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be so effective. That is why doctors recommend Kellogg's.

The wonderful, nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran is exclusive. It is delicious—totally unlike ordinary brans. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package. Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

Doctors say "white soap"

Safe soap—white pure soap is standard for hospitals and sick rooms because some soaps are colored and strongly perfumed to hide hues and odors resulting from poor soap-materials. The honest creamy whiteness of Sweetheart and its wonderful lather, cleansing yet mild, can come only from the finest soap materials. Efficient manufacture and a plain package make the low price.

is the nobility of all such. Blue Ribbon is a veritable Henry of Navarre—towering over all the little fry, and for such a simple reason. Just because it is as good as the 68-year old company which turns it out can make it. And what an easy guide to follow. We know it. "Don't make goods for profit", says the maker of Blue Ribbon. BEFORE TWINS WERE BORN

Was Very Miserable. Felt Lots Better After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyocena, Wisconsin.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my twins were born because my sister used it and recommended it to me. I was so I could scarcely go about my daily work I was in such misery. But after I began taking the second bottle I was feeling lots better. I took three bottles and a half before I was confined and finished the bottle while I was in bed. I got up feeling fine and have taken care of the twins alone ever since. I recommend the Vegetable Compound highly and will sing its praises in the future."—Mrs. Ida Grantz, Wyocena, Wis.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many mothers are left in a weakened and run-down condition after child-birth, and for such mothers the care of the baby is well-nigh impossible. Not only is it hard for the mother, but the child itself will indirectly suffer.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother both before and after child-birth. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs. It can be taken in safety by nursing mothers.

MOOSE BASEBALL PLAYERS WILL FEAST TONIGHT

Others to Be Guests at Chicken Dinner Following Baseball Game at Vanderbilt.

OTHER NEWS OF THE DAY

Special to The Courier.

VANDERBILT, June 12.—The baseball players of the Loyal Order of Moose, Lodge No. 32, will be the honor guests at a dinner to be held this evening at Moose Hall. The dinner is being given by the local lodge. The Connellsville Firemen's Band will be included, as will other persons who will play an important part in the big baseball game. The members of the Divada Independents will be seated at the dinner. There will be speeches by officials of the rival Moose teams, with the president of the Vanderbilt Athletic Club. An appropriate program for the occasion will be carried out. The Moorehart Club is arranging the program.

Covers will be laid for more than 125 guests, and every person "will dig in" on the chicken dinner.

Close to 1,000 persons are expected to witness the opening game of the series between the single men and the married men teams of the Moose club. A large delegation from Connellsville will attend. Squire McLaughlin, who will open the series by heaving the first ball, claims that he "will pitch an innin' or two for the single men." The game will begin at 4 o'clock, and a band will lead a parade from the grounds to the dining room. Captain Reed of the Married Nine and Captain Ambrose of the Bachelors are confident of winning for themselves.

More Players Quit.

Henry Washington, president and manager of the Paul Tornado Athletic Association, also twirler for the Tornado baseball team, has tendered his resignation to the Tornado A. A., effective at once. He refused to state any reasons for resigning. Joseph Washington, all-round player, also of the Tornadoes, tendered his resignation. This places the total of resignations in the Tornado club at six.

Missing Men Heard From.

Word was received last evening from Louis Younkin and Joseph Strickler, local men who were missing for a week. The men are employed at Galesburg, Ill., and are staying with an aunt of Strickler. Leaving here Sunday evening at 4 o'clock, they made the trip to Galesburg by 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, they write. Claude Conn, Fred Mehock and Thomas Royson were among the missing men from Vanderbilt. The trio stopped in Chicago, Ill.

Cattle Damage Crops.

Andrew Owatt, a farmer, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace C. B. Arison last evening to answer a charge of "trespassing and malicious damage to crops" upon information filed by William Lytle, also a farmer of near Vanderbilt. The case was compromised upon payment of the costs. Lytle claimed that "cattle owned by Owatt continually damaged his crops, and that the defendant ignored all warnings to keep them out of his property."

Other Notes.

The Civic Club and the American Legion club will meet Friday evening at the American Legion rooms in another game in the Vanderbilt Five Hundred League.

Mrs. Beulah West will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace C. B. Arison this evening to answer a charge of "disorderly conduct and using vulgar language" upon information filed by Mrs. Agnes Walker. The plaintiff and defendant are colored, residing at Paul Works.

Jack Nicklow, Millard Bair, Basil Savage and James Bair of Smock were transacting business here last evening.

C. W. Durbin and family moved yesterday to their new home in East Liberty, recently purchased. They made their home up to this time at the Vanderbilt Hotel.

Car Loadings Show Increase

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended May 24 totaled 918,213 cars. This was an increase of 4,806 cars compared with the preceding week but a decrease of 97,319 cars under the corresponding week last year. Compared with the corresponding week in 1922, when freight shipments were somewhat reduced on account of the miners' strike, it was an increase of 111,236 cars.

Coal loadings totaled 139,803 cars, 2,493 cars above the preceding week but 53,212 cars under the corresponding week one year ago. Due to the miners' strike, it was an increase of 46,[illegible] cars over the same week in 1922.

Coke loadings totaled 8,740 cars, 529 under the week before, 6,270 less than last year, and 99 cars below two years ago.

Dr. Bulger Taken To Brownsville

Dr. Kenneth Bulger of Brownsville who disappeared from the Brooklyn Hospital, New York, and was located several days later in Connellsville when he telephoned to his home from a booth at the Pennsylvania Railroad station, was taken to Brownsville Tuesday afternoon by his brother, Lawrence, and his father. He had suffered a nervous breakdown.

Members of the family had been looking for the doctor. When his voice was recognized over the telephone he was held in conversation while the police here were notified. Lieutenant P. M. Rulli hurried to the station and took charge of the man who was held pending the arrival of relatives.

Dainty Blouse in Winsome Fashions

Garment in Vogue in Plain and Fancy Effects for Any Occasion.

The new blouses have come in for more than their allotted attention this season, due, of course, to the prevalence of the tailored vogue. A blouse is an essential to every suit, notes a fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune, and the effectiveness of the tailleur in numerous instances depends largely upon the type of the accompanying waist.

Among the plainer effects which have come into prominence this spring are the plaited bosoms which end in tiny tabs like a man's shirt, and the waistcoat model, which is achieved by two front panels outlined with narrow bindings and brought together by the aid of large pearl buttons. This latter type of blouse is seen in colored lines, organdie, tub silk and in voile combined with pique and linen. When the blouse material is soft, the front panels are developed in a heavier fabric to hold the shape of the waistcoat. Some show narrow bindings of delicately plaided ginghams, while many others complete the symbolism by displaying vestlike cross pieces at the waistline in the back.

A distinct novelty is a white silk blouse with a front of Roman striped silk, which is arranged horizontally, and a long matching scarf of the same material. This waist is particularly effective with the elaborate tailleur, and it has its practical element as well since it will be decidedly ornamental when warm weather compels the removal of the coat.

Something soft and frilly is encountered in a blouse boasting a fichu—the old-fashioned fichu of net edged with lace, which in this case is slipped through tabs buttoning over the front of the bodice. Matching cuffs placed over long sleeves, which are gathered at the wrist, complete a charmingly old-fashioned poudre-blue model.

Embroidery Relieves Plainness of Blouse of White Crepe de Chine.

The importance of the new blouses lies in the fact that they are the determining influences of the tailored costume. They play a dual role, exaggerating the mannish effect for the woman who prefers the plain coiffure and the rigid boyish lines and mitigating the severity of the new styles for her who refuses to succumb to the lure of the mode garcon.

Workmen Excavate Marble Steps of Roman Theater

Philippopolis, Bulgaria.—Archeologists are startled by the discovery of what is evidently a Roman amphitheater in the city square, Djumaia, made by workmen here the other day.

The workmen were digging foundations for a new structure when, four meters below the surface of the square, they came upon a flight of marble stairs of massive construction and surface worn smooth by the tread of many feet.

This city contains some remarkable historic structures dating back to Roman and pre-Roman times. Among these memorials of the past is a city wall, which runs over the brow of one of the seven hills on which, like Rome, the city, named for Philip of Macedon, is built.

The World's Largest Producer of Quality Automobiles

THE STUDEBAKER Light-Six—a history maker—the first fine six-cylinder car under 3,000 pounds at a four-cylinder price.

A car with followers, imitators and adapters by the score—but with no rival in quality, popularity or sales volume. It is still the Leader!

A car built to fulfill the ideal of producing the greatest automobile value in the $1,000 field—the car which started the stampede from fours to sixes.

A car with a specially designed offset valve motor of remarkable quietness, economy, freedom from vibration—and with tenacious resourcefulness of power on the hills, the straightaway and the pickup!

A car comfortable, roomy, good-looking, very easy to handle on the road, in traffic or in parking—long-lived, low in first cost and especially low in up-keep costs. The market's one best bargain for the man who wants all the car he can get at about $1,000.

A car that is an investment, not an expense, because it can be bought on very liberal terms, sold or traded in at a very high resale value on a market always ready and waiting for a used Light-Six Studebaker—its popularity and demand as a used car are the most convincing evidence of its goodness as an automobile.

MUST NOT BREAK FAITH WITH THE BOYS

The preparations of the Boy Scout troops of Connellsville to hold an annual field day on July Fourth show that the local organizations are alive and functioning and that they have faith in the ultimate success of the campaign to provide Connellsville's quota for the county council.

They are doing their part to demonstrate what Scouting can do in the development of boys both physically and morally and in training them to be alert, resourceful and faithful. Although our troops are under the direction of capable scout masters, and they in turn have an efficient and active organization of their own, it is realized that something is yet needed to provide for the better administration of Scouting as a county unit. This is the object of the Fayette County Council, in the organization of which the first essential is to provide the budget for the next two years. Until this has been done the plan cannot be made effective, a full time executive placed in charge and Scouting placed on a business basis.

The smaller towns of the county have already reached their quota, some have over-subscribed it. Uniontown and Connellsville have some distance to do before attaining the goal. Uniontown is nearer to its objective than Connellsville. The latest returns show that we have not quite reached the half-way mark. Not all the canvassers have made reports but it is evident that if all returns were in there would be still a very large shortage to be made up.

It is not believed the people of Connellsville are willing that we shall fail to go over the top on this drive. Conditions are unusual, it is freely admitted. Business is in small volume, collections slow and many wage earners are out of employment or on reduced time. In such a situation the canvassers do not have a pleasant task in urging people to give to the Boy Scout Fund. If the object were less worthy great difficulty would have been experienced in getting persons to serve on the teams. They, like all good citizens, are interested in doing something that will have a helpful influence in forming the characters of growing boys, and are willing to make a sacrifice of their time in bringing the Scouting proposition to the attention of citizens.

If the friends of the boys who have not yet contributed to the fund will give a moment's thought to the matter, and realize that we have not yet fallen down on a job of this kind, and that the other towns in the county are determined to raise their full quota, a sense of community pride will doubtless prompt a response.

It having been practically impossible to prepare a list of all persons who are in sympathy with the objects of the campaign, it is especially urged by Chairman Rosenbaum that they send their contributions to him direct. If this suggestion is acted upon quickly and generally making a house-to-house canvass will not be necessary and further sacrifice of time by the solicitors can be avoided.

Prove your interest in the boys and show your appreciation of the efforts that are being made in their behalf by mailing your checks while the matter is fresh in your mind. We must not break faith with the boys.

The construction of the Republican platform exhausts the supply of Strictly No. 1, clear timber suitable for this purpose. The Democrats will have nothing but knotty, sap-edged and wind-shaken culls out of which to build their imitation.

The remodelled and renovated Y. M. C. A. building is an institution of which the sponsor can be as proud as the employes of the Baltimore & Ohio find it inviting and complete in all its appointments.

Beat the canvasser to it by mailing your check for the Boy Scout Fund direct to Chairman Rosenbaum.

Pinchot's Hats.

Education and Money

Harrisburg Telegraph.

The value of an education reckoned in the hard cash of the realm has been graphically set forth in a bulletin of the Indianapolis Board of School Commissioners. We recommend the following results of comparative education and income to those who may be thinking at this time of year that their education is sufficient for the needs of the day.

In Massachusetts the average person goes to school for seven years and thereafter earns an average monthly income of $200. In Tennessee the average person gets three years of schooling and must be content with an average wage of $116.

In the country as a whole the average college graduate makes $2,000 per year. The average high school graduate makes just half of that, while the grammar school graduate averages an income of $500 per year! The Indianapolis Board has figured that each day spent in high school is worth $25 to each pupil, and each day spent in college is worth $55. Quitting school to go to work cannot possibly bring such returns.

Education is not only money; it is prestige. Only one out of every hundred Americans is a college graduate. Yet 36 per cent of our Congressmen have been college men, 50 per cent of our Presidents, and a majority of our Supreme Court judges and attorney generals.

"Who's Who," that compendium of greatness, proves that higher education and the fame that is founded on good works go hand in hand. The honor student in college has one chance in three of getting his name in this book. The grammar school graduate must take his chance with 4,250 others of being recorded in "Who's Who."

A good education is generally conceded to be worth all it costs in time and money. But we need to be reminded from time to time that knowledge is power in more senses than one.

On the other hand there are the two brilliant young Chicago college men who are now held for the most atrocious murder in the history of that city. Not every "honor student" keeps up his pace in after life and many a high school graduate is at this moment the employer of college men. It is good to have education, but education is not every thing. Force of character, natural ability and persistence are keynotes to success. Get a college education if you can. If you can't settle right down to the job of winning without it. A thousand men of means and position will tell you it can be done.

The Law on Trial

Minneapolis Journal.

Strange, is it not, that the criminal who flouts the law and makes subtle war upon society in his hours of freedom, turns to the protection of the law and the community in his hour of trial?

Nathan Leopold, Jr., of Chicago snapped his fingers at the Constitution which guards the inherent human rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, until the toils of the law gathered around him. Then he cried in outraged protest, "You are violating my Constitutional rights not to give evidence against myself."

When Leopold and Loeb face twelve good men and true, the law itself will go on trial. Old questions will be opened afresh. Is there one law for the rich and powerful and another for the poor and lowly? Is the gunman from the fashionable South Side any different before blind Justice than the gunman from the Stock Yards district?

Can a flagrant crime, committed after long premeditation, openly confessed to and corroborated by a dozen evidences of circumstantial nature, worm its way to immunity through the loopholes of the law known to clever lawyers working solely for princely fees?

Leopold and Loeb knew no God nor master until landed behind prison walls. Now they turn eagerly to Money God and the masters of legal technicalities.

If they escape the gallows which they so richly deserve they will have done so through the mercy or the folly of the law which they so contemptuously offended.

The law is on trial in Chicago.

Nation Needs a Rest

Harrisburg Telegraph.

As there is a time for crusading, so is there a time for quiet, steady, economical housekeeping. But as a nation we have been crusading so much the last 30 years that some of us have the habit, do not feel happy unless we are "all het up," unless we are enlisted for war in some cause or other that will uplift mankind.

Yet, following the necessary and glorious effort that ended the World War, it behooves us to take stock, to mend fences, to sit tight, to conserve, to get our breath and to let some slight reserve of strength and resource accumulate.

We have earned a rest and we need it. Keeping cool with Coolidge for four years will replenish our resources, benefit our health, will constitute, in fact, the kindest thing we can do for ourselves.

Good, sober administration, excellent economy, quiet devotion to our own business, coupled with good counsel and assistance to fellow nations, will result fruitfully. The four years to come are no time for experiment, for adventure, for crusading, for jazz politics or jazz anything else.

Cool judgment, sober sense, prudent conservation, cautious piloting—they are the requirements and the Vermonter has them to use in our service. They will be employed most likely, since our people usually are pretty shrewd when it comes to electing Presidents.

FATALITY RATE IN APRIL HIGHEST IN PAST TEN YEARS

Death List Numbered 234, or at Rate of 6.44 Per Million Tons Mined.

TOTAL FOR QUARTER 384

Accidents at coal mines during the month of April resulted in the death of 234 men, according to reports received from state mine inspectors by the Interior Department, through the Bureau of Mines. The fatality rate for the month was 6.44 per million tons of coal produced, as compared with 3.71 for April last year and a 4.94 average of April during the 10-year period 1914-23. The high fatality rate for April, 1924, was due to an explosion at Benwood, W. Va., which resulted in the loss of 119 lives.

The rate for bituminous mines alone was 6.91 per million tons (including the Benwood disaster), as against 3.48 for April last year and a 4.67 average for April for 10 years. For anthracite mines alone the rate was 4.41 per million tons, as compared with 4.96 for April, 1923, and a 10-year average rate of 6.28. Of the 234 men killed in April, 1924, 30 were killed at the anthracite mines in Pennsylvania and 204 at bituminous mines throughout the country. Underground accidents at both classes of mines numbered 220 shaft accidents four, and surface accidents 10.

During the first four months of 1924, Bureau of Mines records show a total of 993 lives lost, indicating a death of 6.06 per million tons. For the same period last year the rate was 4.08. The four-month average rate for bituminous mines alone was 5.03 in 1924 and 3.84 in 1923; for anthracite mines alone it was 5.18 in 1924 as compared with 5.36 in 1923.

"Major disasters," that is, disasters in which five or more lives were lost, numbered five during the period of January 1 to April 30, 1924; the resulting loss of life was 384. During the corresponding months last year there were four similar disasters with a loss of 140 lives.

Comparing the causes of the fatal accidents in 1924 to the end of April, with those for the same period in 1923, the records for 1924 show reduced fatality rates attributable to falls of roof and coal, haulage equipment, explosives, and electricity. Increased rates are shown for explosions of gas and coal dust.

Merger of Indiana Mines Is Planned

A plan for the consolidation of a number of coal mining companies operating in Indiana is being worked out by coal men and New York bankers, according to information received in New York from Chicago.

The proposed consolidation, it was said, would bring 25 per cent of the mines in Indiana under a common management and would make for efficiency in production, with reduced overhead and better production facilities.

Just Folks

Edgar A. Guest.

SHINGLED.

I was rather set against it. I'm old-fashioned, and I linger
Rather fondly o'er the treasures that I've dearly learned to finger.
I'm the kind that keeps old pictures stored away in dusty places
And go stealing in to see them, all the old-remembered faces;
So I rather wished she wouldn't, when she said she thought she'd do it,
But she's been to town and done it, and I guess that's all there's to it.

"Not with my consent," I murmured, when she spoke to me about it:
"I don't ever want to see you going round the house without it."
And she smiled and called me "Silly," and she said when once I'd seen it
She was certain I would like it. Still I thought she didn't mean it.
But you know the ways of women—If it's their affair they'll run it,
And it's now too late to argue, for she's been to town and done it.

I was rather set against it. I'm old-fashioned, and I know it;
By a thousand foolish notions which I'm clinging to, I show it.
Though I cannot now explain it, and she says she likes it better,
I'm forever looking backward to the first day that I met her,
When it seemed my dreams of beauty were with raven tresses mingled;
Now that wealth of hair has vanished—she's been down and had it shingled!

Physicians have used every available method to have the boy walk well and to save amputation of the leg which was badly crushed.

INTESTINAL INDIGESTION

Its Cause and the Remedy.

Indigestion is not confined to the stomach, as fats and starches are principally digested in the small intestines after leaving the stomach; therefore the usual distresses of indigestion may occur lower down.

If the stomach and lower parts of the body are out of order, constipation results with loss of appetite, indigestion, ailments, chronic headaches and very often severe backache.

To cure this condition, nature's own remedy has been provided by a wonderful combination of roots and herbs now placed on the market under the name of Lebanon Herb Tablets. These little tablets contain no harsh purgatives such as Salts, Calomel, etc., and sufferers are strongly advised to give them a trial. Your druggist or Union Drug Co. can supply you.—Advertisement.

Helps You To Have Luxuriant Hair

The use of Cuticura Soap for shampooing the hair, preceded by touches of Cuticura Ointment to spots of dandruff, itching or irritation, will keep the scalp clean and healthy and promote hair growth.

Child-birth

WHEN the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA-75, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

Production of Steel, 1923, Was Under 1917 Record

The statistics of steel production in 1923 shows that the total in gross tons was Ingot, 43,485,565; castings, 1,468,081.

The production of ingots fell one-third of one per cent of equaling the record made in 1917, while the production of castings made a new record by a little over one per cent, so that the total of the two was about one-third of one per cent under the record, says The American Metal Market.

The performance was a very good one in view of all the circumstances. The war time production was a special thing, while the aftermath of war prevents that free development of enterprise that occurred before the war. Steel is chiefly a construction material, though it is true there is much current consumption. Rails worn out, tin plate and steel used in automobiles account for between 15 and 20 per cent of our production.

The two pre-war years 1912 and 1913 were very good tonnage years, each showing about 30,280,000 tons of ingots, or 20 per cent over the best previous record, and now 1923 has shown a further gain of 43 per cent. For a post-war comparison, 1923 ran 36 per cent above the average of the four preceding years, the first four years after the war.

On account of the large production of shell steel during the war, the production of finished rolled steel did not show its usual proportion to steel ingots. The result is that last year made a new record in rolled material, 33,277,076 tons against 32,067,700 tons in 1917. Incidentally the production of rolled steel made a still larger gain, for rolled iron dropped from 1,847,757 tons in 1917 to 866,597 tons in 1923.

The production of rolled steel alone in 1923 was 32,321,479 tons, against the previous record of 31,199,943 tons in 1917, a gain of 3½ per cent. This difference between ingots and rolled steel is made chiefly by the fact that in 1917 there was heavy cropping of ingots, for the manufacture of shell steel.

Business Recession Not Serious, Says Secretary Hoover

A few days ago Secretary of Commerce Hoover issued a statement in which he declared he sees no fundamental reasons for further recessions in business and industrial activity. Furthermore, he believes the present slackening of activity is more psychological than real. He pointed out that recent months have seen decided cuts into inventories, due to caution on the part of producers and because little forward business has been in sight.

This reduction in inventories, with the attendant steady consumption in general lines, must sooner or later force increased demand for materials of production. In fact, Secretary Hoover sees the possibility of sudden demand in many lines within a comparatively short time.

"The country has seen no recent booms or inflations," he said, "and there should be no prolonged or serious period of depression." Viewing the country as a whole he said, the business recession although more or less tangible, is not serious. Little or no unemployment exists at present. Secretary Hoover described recent business trends as operating by fits and starts. At present he believes business has reached one of the depression "fits."

Lemons Bleach the Skin White

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Advertisement.

Personally I don't take any stock in any such propoganda for this year because if such were the case Congress would have placed the blame before its close.

The inside dope on business is that it will break loose on or about July 15th. Don't be setting out in the cold without making a contract for the new heating plant at the present low prices. The old hot water or steam plant that don't function for you can be made over into a modern Vapor Plant that "do work."

At the Theatres

The Paramount

"DANGER AHEAD"—The feature picture today at this theatre, presents Richard Talmadge in an interesting role.

The luxurious mansion of Bruce Randall, on Riverside Drive, presents a calm and decorous appearance to the casual passerby on this summer night—but behind its granite walls has raged a struggle as elemental and brutal as any hand-to-hand encounter of cave-dwelling days. Thrill has followed thrill as brute strength and youthful agility battled for a fortune in jewels. Then a woman shrieks and faints as a murderous brass poker crashes down upon a defenseless head, and the robber stands in sudden terror over the limp and motionless form of his victim.

How to escape the law? How to defeat justice of its payment for his crime? These questions overwhelm him as he staggers to the open window.

Friday and Saturday, "The Gentleman Unafraid," will be the feature attraction.

The Soisson

"LUCRETIA LOMBARD," which opened today at the Soisson for a three day attraction, present Irene Rich and Monte Blue in the leading role.

It is the story of a woman who marries a man older than herself to gratify her mother' vanity and ambitions for a titled daughter. After seven year of loveless and forlorn marriage, catering to the whims of a crochety invalid, death comes and frees Lucretia Lombard. She meets a family group composed of Judge Winship, his wife, his pretty ward, Mimi; his two sons, Fred and Stephen, the latter a district attorney. Mimi loves Stephen, but he merely harbors a fond affection for her. Stephen is irresistibly drawn to Lucretia, and she to him. But he marries Mimi suddenly, when his jealousy feeds on a chance conversation between Lucretia and Fred.

The scene showing how fate takes the matter into her own hands, arranging, disarranging and finally rearranging matters, are said to be extremely dramatic and strong.

Monte Blue and Irene Rich are supported by the following cast: Marc McDermott, Alec B. Francis, John Roche, Lucy Beaumont, Otto Hoffman and Norman Shearer.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week "A Slave of Desire," will be shown.

The Orpheum

"PALS IN BLUE"—Showing today, Friday and Saturday at the Orpheum presents Tom Mix in the stellar role.

The start of our story finds Tom Boldan sheriff of a small western town and in love with Mary Carstairs, whom he is engaged to marry. Her brother Joe, a weak boy, is inveigled into participating in the hold-up of the overland stage by Steve Hanley, and in the fight following the robbery Hanley is killed and Joe captured by Tom. Joe pleads for a chance to get away, but Tom must uphold the law. His sweetheart Mary is broken-hearted upon discovering the situation and upbraids Tom for not permitting her brother to escape, and breaks her engagement as a consequence. His appeals to reason fall on deaf ears. Unable to tolerate her scorn any longer, Tom and his pal Jerry go away.

Weeks later, after knocking about in a distant city, they get work with a traveling circus as trick riders. But their good fortune is short lived, the show being attached by a sheriff for unpaid bills, and once again Tom and Jerry find themselves stranded and broke.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, Conway Tearle and Corinne Griffith will be seen in "Black Oxen."

His Stomach Was Bad Actor

For Indigestion, Acute or Chronic—For Gas, Heaviness or Any Stomach Distress.

An old timer once said: "When your stomach's right you're right all over."

Millions of people all over America who are trying to subdue a rebellious stomach and be free from dizzy spells, gas, headaches and sour stomach will agree with old timer.

"But on the other hand," remarked an up-to-date druggist a few weeks ago, "Only boobs have indigestion now."

What this every minute on the job druggist meant, was that any person who suffers with any kind of stomach trouble when Dare's Mentha Pepsin is to be found in every drug store is more to be blamed than pitied.

If you have stomach trouble of any kind, why fool with medicines that at best can only give temporary relief—why not get rid of stomach troubles forever?

What objection can you have to trying one bottle with the distinct understanding that if it doesn't do you a whole lot of good any regular druggist will gladly return the purchase price?—Advertisement.

DECREASE IN STEEL PRODUCTION THIS MONTH IS SLIGHT

Present Rate About 45 Per Cent of Capacity; Buying Believed to be On Upward Course.

Special to The Weekly Courier.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Review will review the steel and iron trade tomorrow as follows:

Steel production has decreased only slightly since the first of this month, after large decreases in April and May. Approximate annual rates of ingot production were as follows: In the fore part of March, the record high, 51,000,000 tons; April 1, 48,000,000 tons; May 1, 36,000,000 tons; June 1, 26,000,000 tons. The rate now is a little under 25,000,000 tons. Assuming capacity at 54,000,000 tons, the present ingot production is at about 45 per cent.

On account of time elapsing between production of ingots and shipment of finished product, and on account of cleaning up of stock ingots and semi-finished steel, shipments have been running at higher rates than the concurrent rate of ingot production. We estimate the United States Steel Corporation's shipments in May at 71 per cent of capacity. The May decrease in the corporation's unfilled obligations, 580,358 tons, the largest loss since June, 1923, represented 43 per cent of capacity, so that the bookings appear to have been about 29 per cent of capacity.

Decreasing mill shipments are a record of what has already occurred in the steel market by way of decreased buying. They are historic, not barometric. The trend in buying is not downward now and it may already be upward. The record of some important mills is of heavier bookings thus far this month than in the same period of May, while the inquiry is undoubtedly broader. Up to date the rate of buying has been well below the rate of shipping, so that the decline in mill operations cannot easily be arrested at this time. In many cases consumers' stocks will be liquidated by early July and the upward swing in production may occur soon after the middle of July.

Steel prices are holding fairly well, there being merely sagging in spots. Pipe is firm at mills. The Pittsburg market on bars, shapes and plates remains at 2.20c. Some eastern mills are shading this basis. Chicago is higher relative to Pittsburg than a year ago. Wire products show divergences beyond the recent $2 a ton decline. The leading interest is likely soon to readjust its sheet prices to the independent market.

PLAY SEVEN INNINGS

The Poplar Grove Klairdales defeated the Paul Tornado Athletic Association baseball club last evening at Dickerson Run Y M C A grounds by a score of 8 to 4. DIVADA INDEPENDENTS LOSE TO REVERE NINE

The Divada Independents under the management of the Vanderbilt Athletic Club bowed before the fast Revere nine last evening at Revere by a score of 11 to 3 in a one-sided combat. Lacking a twirler, Mike Schonage pitched the first inning for the Divadas and Revere counted five times before the side could be retired. Steve Schonage relieved him and the Revere aggregation managed to add six in four frames, on several errors and hits. O'Brien twirled for Revere and was wild, hitting four batsmen

The Vanderbilt team is passing through a "reconstruction period" placing new players in the positions left vacant by the discharged members. Sprout and Black were the new faces that appeared in the line-up The team is confident of regaining its winning stride Friday evening when it meets the strong Allison aggregation Rumor is that Jock Menefee, former Harmarville Consumers twirler, included in the discharged players, would pitch Friday's game against the Divada nine

Smithfield will be the attraction at Fayette Field June 28 when the Divada team will play as the home team. Mount Braddock will play two games at the Dickerson Run Y M C A. grounds on the Fourth of July Isabelle will play at the Dickerson Run grounds Monday evening.

Joint - Ease is selling like hot cakes in my store because it is a wonderful and speedy remedy for all joint troubles

Pitching Duel Was Result of Accident

While columns in fact pages, have been written about the famous pitching duel between Ed Walsh and Addie Joss in Cleveland October 2, 1908 it remained for Ed Walsh the other day, to tell something new, which was to the effect that neither he nor Joss was notified he was going to pitch that memorable afternoon until just before the game writes Henry P Edwards in the Cleveland Plain Dealer

"Addie and I were sitting on the roll of canvas that afternoon wondering who was going to pitch neither of us figuring he would work before the next afternoon I remember one of the photographers came along and snapped us A moment later Fielder Jones told me to get ready and right away Nap Lajoie told Addie he was elected"

And then Walsh went out and fanned 15 men in eight innings and Joss did not let a batter reach first.

It's what Oakland gives for $995 that counts

Bear these facts in mind in choosing a car:		Here are the advantages Oakland offers:
Be sure that the engine in the car you choose incorporates the very latest design and construction.	1	Oakland's engine is the last word in advanced design. Automotive engineers praise its construction.
Be sure you get the latest braking system. Four-wheel brakes are safer. Don't buy a car without them.	2	The Oakland Six has four-wheel brakes at no added cost. They are sound in principle and practice.
Ordinary body finishes are perishable and easily marred. Get the facts about Oakland's new finish.	3	Oakland alone, in its class, has a special new finish which will not check nor lose its lustre.
Observe whether driving controls are convenient. Compare other cars with Oakland in this respect.	4	Oakland's controls—all of them except gear shift—are on the steering wheel; an exclusive feature.
The tendency is toward a more substantial top for open cars. Examine cars with this point in mind.	5	Everyone likes Oakland's permanent top. Curtains fit better and glass enclosures can be added.
Although disc steel wheels are superior, most builders in this class make you pay extra for them.	6	All True Blue Oaklands have disc steel wheels at no extra cost. They are better looking and safer.
Note the body design and workmanship of cars in this class. Are bodies attractive and substantial?	7	Oakland's seven distinctive bodies are Fisher-built. Everyone comments on their smart appearance.

The True Blue Oakland is built and priced to be the leading value in its field.

The Highgrader

by Wm MacLeod Raine

COPYRIGHT by G.W. DILLINGHAM CO.

"—When they don't want to give themselves away. I believe it is," he tossed back with the same lightness "Before I make confession, I shall want to know whether you are on my side—or Verinder's."

Under the steady look of his bold, possessive eyes the long silken lashes fell to the soft cheeks Joyce understood the unvoiced demand that lay behind the obvious one. He had thrown down the gage of battle Was she for Verinder or for him? If he could have offered her one-half the advantages of his rival, her answer would not have been in doubt. But she knew she dared not marry a poor man, no matter how wildly his presence could set her pulses flying or how great her longing for him. Not the least intention of any romantic absurdity was in her mind When the time came for choice she would go to Verinder and his millions But she did not intend to let Jack Kilmeny go yet

She lifted to him a face flushed and excited, answering apparently his words and not his thoughts "I haven't decided yet. How could I tell till I hear what you have to say for yourself?"

"You couldn't find a more charming sister confessor for your sins" the captain told his cousin.

"I'll do my best," Joyce promised. Then, with a flash of friendly malice: "But I haven't had the experience of Moya She is just perfect in the role I know, because she hears all mine."

Moya flushed resentfully. She did not intend to set up for a prude, but she certainly did not mean to treat highgrading as if it were a joke. If Jack Kilmeny was innocent, why did he not indignantly deny the charge?

"[illegible] I'll have to be excused," she said, a little stiffly

"Miss Dwight doesn't approve of me," explained the miner "If I confessed to her she would probably turn me over to the sheriff."

The girl's quick eyes flashed into his "I don't approve of taking ore that doesn't belong to one—if that's what you mean, Mr Kilmeny."

Jack liked the flare of temper in her She was very human in her impulses. At bottom, too, he respected the integrity of mind that refused to compromise with what she thought was wrong.

"But I Did Last Year and the Year Before That."

But no admission of this showed in his strong brown face. His mordant eyes mocked her while he went into a whimsical argument to show that highgrading was really a virtue, since it tended to keep the rich from growing richer and the poor poorer. He wanted to know by what moral right Verinder owned the Mollie Gibson and the Never Quit any more than he did.

The mine owner, puffing from the exertions of the last bit of ascent, exclaimed indignantly: "Own 'em, by [illegible] Doesn't a Johnny own what he buys and pays for?"

"You don't suppose that when God or Nature or the First Cause created that ore vein a million years ago He had Dobyans Verinder in mind as the owner," derided Kilmeny

"That's all anarchistic rot, you know. These mines are my property, at least a commanding interest. They're mine because I bought the shares Government is founded on a respect for property rights."

"So I've observed," retorted Jack dryly. "I'd back that opinion, too, if I owned half of Goldbanks."

"I suppose Mr. Kilmeny's highgrading friends are superior to law; it isn't necessary for them to abide by the rules society has found best for its protection," Moya suggested.

The engaging smile of the accused rested upon Miss Dwight. "I met you and your friends in a motorcar yesterday I'll bet that speedometer said twenty five miles, but the town ordinance puts the speed limit at fifteen. What about that?"

"You know that's different. No moral question was involved. But when it comes to taking what belongs to another—well, I say that a thief is a thief."

"Right as a rivet, Miss Dwight. But you're begging the question Does that ore belong to Dobyans Verinder any more than it does to—well, to Jack Kilmeny, say, for the sake of argument? I go down there and risk my life blasting it out. He—"

"But you don't," interrupted Moya

"Not today, perhaps—or yesterday But I did last year and the year before that I've brought up in my arms the bodies of men torn to pieces and carried them to their wives and kiddies How about those women and children? Haven't they earned an interest in the mine? Isn't their moral claim greater than that of Mr. Verinder, who sits in London and draws the dividends?"

"They are pensioned, aren't they?"

"They are not," returned Jack curtly "The mine owners of Goldbanks don't believe in encouraging negligence If those workmen hadn't taken chances they probably would not have been killed, you see But if they didn't take chances none of the men could earn a living for their families. It is plain how very much to blame they are"

Moya looked across the summits of the hills into the brilliant sunset that lay like a wonderful canvas in the crotch of the peaks A troubled little frown creased her forehead She was unusually silent on the way home. Once she looked up and asked Captain Kilmeny a question.

"After all, two wrongs don't make a right, do they?"

"No, dear girl Life's full of injustice. I dare say some of the men I lead are better than Ned Kilmeny, but I've got to forget that and sit tight in the seat that's been dealt me by the cards If Jack is trying to justify highgrading, he hasn't a leg to stand on."

She sighed. "You don't think, do you, that—?"

He answered her broken sentence. "Don't know. He doesn't play the game by the same rules we do, but my judgment is that the gossip about him has no basis of fact."

The girl he loved gave him one grateful look and fell again into silence. Captain Kilmeny walked beside his slim, tall, worshipful sweetheart with a heavy heart. She was his promised bride. That she would keep faith he did not doubt. But the progress that he made in winning her love was so little that he seemed to himself to be marking time The shadow of his vagabond cousin still lay between them

CHAPTER XI

One Maid—Two Men

Jack saw to it that he and Joyce followed the others down the trail at a very leisurely pace The early night of the Rockies was already cutting them off from the rest of the world. Captain Kilmeny and his betrothed could be seen as shadows growing every minute more tenuous. India and her escort were already lost in the descending darkness.

It was the first time that the Goldbanks miner had ever been alone with Miss Seldon. He meant to make the most of his chance. Her loveliness sang its way through his alert, masterful eyes into the blood of the man. They talked little, and that irrelevantly. In both of them the tide of emotion ran full. Each was drawn by the subtle irresistible magnet of sex attraction. When their eyes met it was but for an instant A shyness, delirious and delightful, ran like a golden thread through the excitement which burned their blood.

"We . . . must hurry," Joyce breathed deep, as if she had been running.

"Why must we?" he demanded. "This is my hour. I claim it."

"But . . . they're getting ahead of us."

"Let them." He gave her his hand to help her down a steep place in the trail. Their fingers laced, palm clinging to palm.

"You . . . mustn't," she protested.

"Mustn't I?"

"No-o"

The note of faintness was in her voice. Courage flooded him in triumphant waves. A moment and his arms were about her, the velvet of her cheek against his She lay still for an instant, pulses throbbing wildly. But when his lips found hers the woman in her awoke. In an ecstasy of tenderness her arms crept around his neck, and she clung to him A distant sea surf roared in her ears For the first time in her life passion had drowned coquetry.

They spoke in kisses, in caresses, in little murmured nothings, as lovers will till the end of time Something sweet and turbulent swelled in her bosom, an emotion new and inexplicable. For the first time in many experiences of the sex duel she was afraid of herself, of the strength of this impassioned feeling that was sweeping her. She disengaged herself from his embrace and stood back

Beneath the quick probe of his eyes a faint tremor passed through her body. The long lashes fell to the hot cheeks and curtained luminous windows of light.

"What are we doing?" she cried softly.

"Doing? I'm making love to you, sweetheart and you're telling me you love me for it," he answered, capturing her hands.

"Yes, but . . . I don't want you to . . . make love to me . . . that way."

"You do" He laughed aloud, and with a swift motion drew her to him again. "We belong, you witch."

His ardent kisses smothered her and drew the color into her lovely face She yearned toward him, faint with a sweet, exquisite longing Was this love then? Had it at last trapped her in spite of her cool wariness? She did not know. All she was sure of was that she wanted to be in his strong arms and to feel forever this champagne leap of the blood.

• • • • • • •

With the excuse that she must dress for dinner, Joyce went at once to her room and locked the door Discarding the walking suit she was wearing, she slipped into a negligee gown and seated herself before the glass She liked, while thinking things over, to look at herself in the mirror. The picture that she saw always evoked pleasant fugitive memories. It was so now Never had her beauty seemed so radiant and vital, so much an inspiration of the spirit in her.

How had he dared? She was a rare imperious queen of hearts No man before had ever ravished kisses from her in such turbulent fashion. When she thought of the abandon with which she had given herself to his lips and his embrace, the dye deepened on her cheeks. What was this shameless longing that had carried her to him as one looking down from a high tower is drawn to throw himself over the edge?

It was of herself, not him, that she was afraid. She had wanted his kisses. She had rejoiced in that queer, exultant stir of the blood when his eyes stabbed fathoms deep into hers. What was the matter with her? Always she had felt a good natured contempt for girls who threw away substantial advantages for what they called love After steering a course as steady as a mariner's compass for years was she going to play the fool at last? Was she going to marry a pauper, a workingman, one accused of crime, merely because of the ridiculous emotion he excited in her?

The idea was of course absurd Joyce Seldon was the last woman in the world to make a poor man's wife

Tomorrow she must have a serious talk with him and set the matter on a proper footing. She must not let herself be swept away by any quixotic sentiment. The trouble was that she liked him so well. When they met, her good resolutions would be likely to melt in the air. Perhaps it would be better to wait It was now only ten days till the time set for leaving She might write him her decision. It would be sweet to hold him as long as she could. . . .

When Joyce sailed down the corridor to the parlor which adjoined the private dining-room of the party, she caught a glimpse of Verinder turning a corner of the passage toward his room Lady Farquhar was alone in the parlor.

"Didn't I see Mr. Verinder going out?" asked Joyce, sinking indolently into the easiest chair and reaching for a magazine

"Yes. At least he was here" After a moment Lady Farquhar added quietly: "He leaves tomorrow"

Joyce looked up quickly "Leaves where?"

"Goldbanks He is starting for London"

"But . . . What about the reorganization of the companies? I thought ."

"He has changed his plans James is to have his proxies and to arrange the consolidation Mr Verinder is anxious to get away at once"

After an instant's consideration Joyce laughed scornfully She was dismayed by this sudden move, but did not intend to show it. "Isn't this rather . . . precipitous? We're all going in a few days Why can't he wait?"

Her chaperon looked at Joyce as she answered "Urgent business, he says"

"Urgent fiddlesticks!" Joyce stifled a manufactured yawn "I dare say we bore him as much as he does us Wish we were all back in grimy old London!"

"It won't be long now" Lady Jim answered with a smile at the other suggestion "No I don't think business calls him, and I don't think he is bored"

Joyce understood the significance of the retort Verinder at last had revolted against being played with fast and loose He was going because of her violent flirtation with Jack Kilmeny This was his declaration of independence

Miss Seldon was alarmed She had not for a minute intended to let the millionaire escape The very possibility of it frightened her It had not occurred to her that the little man had spirit enough to resent her course so effectively With the prospect of losing it in sight, his great wealth loomed up to dwarf the desire of the hour She blamed herself because in the excitement of her affair with Kilmeny she had for the first time in her life let herself forget real values

But Joyce was too cool a hand to waste time in repining so long as there was a chance to repair the damage Was the lost prize beyond recovery? Two points were in her favor Verinder had not yet gone, and he was very much infatuated with her She would have to flatter him by abasing her self, by throwing herself upon his mercy But since this must be done, she was prepared to pay the price.

It appeared that Dobyans Verinder did not intend to give her an opportunity From the soup to the walnuts the topic of conversation had to do with the impending departure of the mine owner Joyce was prepared to be very kind to him, but he did not for an instant let his eyes dwell in hers Behind the curtain of her dark silken lashes she was alertly conscious of the man without appearing to be so He meant to snub her, to leave without seeing her alone. That was to be her punishment for having cut too deep into his self-esteem. He was going to jilt her

This New Treatment Never Fails to End Piles

Many sufferers from Piles or Hemorrhoids have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was nothing in the world to help them.

To these people we say, "Go to your druggist and get an original box of Moava Suppositories." One of these inserted into the rectum according to directions will be found to give immediate relief. They reach the source of the trouble and by their soothing, healing, antiseptic action first allay the pain and soreness and then by direct contact with the ulcers and piles cause them to heal up and disappear forever.

It's simply wonderful how speedily they act. Blessed relief often comes in two days. Even in cases that have steadily resisted all known treatments, marvelous results have been obtained.

All druggists dispense Moava Suppositories in the original box or Union Drug Company can get it for you on short notice.—Advertisement.

TURTLE? NO!

This is a sample bedbug that may be found in this section of the state. Should you find them during house cleaning time don't worry, as it is easy to rid them with the use of the New Chemical P. D. Q. (Pesky Devils Quietus.)

No matter how large they may be, color or sex or where they came from P. D. Q. will kill them and their eggs as if liquid fire had hit them.

Not an insect powder, no dust or muss; will not injure clothing, and will actually kill Moths, Roaches, Cooties, Bed Bugs, Fleas and Ants and puts an everlasting to the Pesky Devils, as it destroys future generations. Impossible for them to exist with its proper use.

Get from your Druggist's a 35c package; this will make a quart; each package contains a patent spout to get them in the hard-to-get-at places. P. D. Q. can also be purchased in liquid form in a handy bottle with patent spout in each package.
